Want 2 Youths Held Here for Auto Thefts

One Wrecked in Escaping Road Block in Indiana

Pair Held for FBI For Transporting Stolen Auto

The two youths picked up near Wason late Sunday by the Saline county sheriff's force are wanted for the theft of several automobiles including one they wrecked in getting away from an Indiana road block, it was learned yesterday from questioning the pair and talking with a North Carolina sheriff.

The two are Kenneth A. Bishop, 18, of Murphysboro, who is AWOL from the U. S. Marine Corps, and James A. Trent, also 18, whose home is at Bradshaw, West Virginia.

County officers said the pair are being held for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the federal violation of transporting a stolen auto across state lines.

Escaped Jail Feb. 1
Sheriff Charles Rumble of Irredell county, North Carolina, said the pair escaped his jail Feb. 1 at Statesville by using a wire on a broomstick to pull a lever that opened the cell block doors.

He said that Trent was being held on two warrants charging auto theft, that there were three warrants charging the same offense against Bishop.

The youths, when questioned separately yesterday afternoon, told substantially the same story. They said that after they broke jail they stole a 1949 Ford at Statesville, which they drove to Mooresville, N. C.

They abandoned the car there and stole a 1953 Ford, in which they headed west. Indiana police were on the lookout for them and somewhere between Indianapolis and Spencer they came upon a roadblock.

Seeing it, they said, they veered off the highway at a high speed, drove between two buildings and crashed into an iron fence. They hopped out and ran through a field, making their getaway as officers pursued, they stated.

Brought to Jail Here
The officers got very close to them as they lay between the rails of a railroad track, and when they heard the police discuss going after bloodhounds, they started moving, they reported. They went through fields and waded a creek in getting to another highway, they said.

Then, they said, they began hitch-hiking, going through Vincennes, Ind., and into Illinois, where they hitch-hiked southward. They were questioned by Deputy Sheriffs Everett N. Sneed, James S. Lyon and Jeff Stricklin late Sunday on Route 45 near Wason and when they could give no satisfactory reason for their presence, they were brought to the Saline county jail for a check. A call to Murphysboro revealed that the Bishop boy had been in trouble and a further check revealed that they had escaped jail at Statesville, N. C.

House Investigates Nickel Plant Controversy; Mansure Resigns as GSA Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators today dug further into the government's 43-million-dollar Cuban nickel plant expansion following General Services Administrator Edmund F. Mansure's surprise resignation.

Mansure, under fire by a House Government Operations subcommittee, resigned Monday because of "personal reasons." White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower would name Asst. Defense Secretary Franklin C. Floete as acting GSA administrator.

The House subcommittee, headed by Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.), is investigating whether political considerations influenced Mansure in expansion of the federal nickel plant at Nicaro, Cuba.

Mr. Eisenhower in accepting Mansure's resignation effective Feb. 10 said he respects "the reasons you have given for wanting to return to private life." He wished Mansure "success."

Neither the outgoing chief of the government's housekeeping agency nor Mr. Eisenhower mentioned the controversy over the nickel plant. Both Hagerty and a GSA spokesman said the resignation was voluntary.

Mansure wrote the President that the GSA has saved the government more than 400 million dollars in the three years of the Eisenhower administration. Mr. Eisenhower extended to Mansure his "sincere thanks" for the "savings and improvements you have made."

Brooks said Mansure's resignation came "as no surprise to me."

Carbondale Man Is Indicted In Girl's Death

MARION, Ill. (AP) — A Williamson County grand jury has indicted a young Carbondale man for manslaughter in the death of his sweetheart last fall.

State's Atty. Carl Sneed said the jury indicted 22-year-old Charles Simon late Monday. Simon told a coroner's jury he accidentally fired the shot that killed 20-year-old Alice Lassiter as they sat in a car outside a Colp tavern Oct. 9.

The grand jury returned an indictment for reckless homicide against James Wiseman of Marion for the death of 10-year-old Glenda Perry. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Perry of Marion, was injured fatally when a truck driven by Wiseman struck her bicycle March 14, 1955, in Marion.

The grand jury also indicted a Zeigler couple, Mr. and Mrs. George Popham, for the robbery of a Colp tavern Jan. 16. Sneed said George Popham also was indicted for robbing Bainbridge's Jewelry Store in Marion Jan. 5. The Pophams are held in jail at Benton charged with robbing a Christopher jewelry store and Popham also is accused of the robbery of a West Frankfort jewelry store.

Vachel Davis Guest Speaker on Lincoln At Rotary Meeting

A program to honor and observe the birthday of Abraham Lincoln was held at the regular meeting of the Harrisburg Rotary club Monday at noon. Vachel Davis, Eldorado artist and writer, was guest speaker.

Mr. Davis has devoted considerable time and effort to a study of the life of Mr. Lincoln. He has talked with and had correspondence with many other students of Lincoln. Mr. Davis also has interviewed many persons whose ancestors knew and associated with Mr. Lincoln during his lifetime.

In his talk to the Rotarians Mr. Davis related many of his experiences and read from correspondence received during the study. He told of talking with Carl Sandburg, a noted authority on the life of Lincoln and read letters received from two other noted students of Lincoln—Edgar A. Guest and the late Henry Horner, former governor of Illinois.

In closing Mr. Davis read Vachel Lin's famous poem, "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight."

U. of Alabama Bars First Negro Student

Excludes Negro Girl to Prevent Further Violence

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The University of Alabama barred Negro student Autherine Lucy from classes today to prevent further violence and insure her safety.

University trustees voted in emergency session Monday night to use "police powers" to exclude the 26-year-old Negro girl from classes following tense demonstrations in which eggs and rocks were hurled.

Her attorney, Arthur Shores, said in Birmingham the trustees' action appeared to be "planned." He won a federal court case to get her admitted to the university as its first Negro student.

Dr. O. C. Carmichael, university president, called trustees into emergency session Monday night about the same time Gov. James E. Folsom refused to send National Guardsmen. Carmichael warned the violence might force the university to close.

The tense hours of Miss Lucy's third day of classes Monday were followed by a third midnight demonstration during which one egg was thrown at Mrs. Carmichael and two pelted Police Chief W. C. Tompkins.

Highway patrolmen spirited Miss Lucy from the campus a few hours earlier while decoy auto were pelted with eggs and rocks. She was not harmed.

Demonstrators marched and drove about the campus and into town Monday night and early today.

The crowd swarmed upon the executive mansion demanding to see Carmichael and when Mrs. Carmichael came outside to explain that he was away someone threw an egg, which missed.

Students Form Cordon
University Police Chief Allen Rayfield and a handful of students formed a cordon to shield the woman while she ducked to safety just as a handful of gravel showered upon the front porch.

Students spurned literature handed out by members of pro-segregation White Citizens Councils picturing interracial marriage ceremonies with shouts of "This is Communist stuff, let's burn it." They started a bonfire on the steps of the campus building.

The trustees said they would exclude Miss Lucy from classes until further notice because of violence and "threats of violence participated in by outsiders."

Dahlgren Bank Burglarized

DAHLGREN, Ill. (AP) — The FBI and Hamilton county authorities are investigating the $450 burglary of the Dahlgren State Bank.

The burglar or burglars forced the front door of the bank Monday night and then cut out the combination lock of the bank safe.

Cashier Glen M. Drennan said the $450 in coins was the only loss. He said no currency was taken and a larger amount of money in another section of the safe was not bothered.

Dahlgren is halfway between Mount Vernon and McLeansboro on U. S. 460.

FBI Arrests Man, 22, for Brutal Hatchet Slaying of West Coast Couple

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — FBI agents arrested a 22-year-old North Dakota man here Monday night who they said admitted the brutal hatchet slaying of a Seattle, Wash., couple on the West Coast.

The man, identified as Donald Wyckskala, a native of Bismarck, N. D., still was carrying the blood-smeared hatchet he used in the killing in a suitcase when arrested.

Wyckskala, who was riding to Los Angeles with the victims, said they kept nagging him about his driving. "There was a hatchet on the floor of the front of the car," he said. "I picked it up and hit him over the head with it."

Wyckskala left the state of Washington Feb. 1 with the victims, James B. Askew, 49, and his wife, Mary, 43, of Seattle.

To Discuss Organization of County Conservation Education Committee

The organization of a Saline County Conservation Education committee will be discussed at the Harrisburg city hall at 7 p. m. Thursday. Dr. B. K. Barton, supervisor of Conservation Education, Springfield, will lead the discussion.

"Dr. Barton is interested in assisting the citizens of each county with the organization of such a committee," A. A. Gholson, chairman of the board of directors of the Saline County Soil Conservation district, stated today. The conservation district is assisting Dr. Barton in this meeting.

"We are anxious," he continued, "that Dr. Barton has a good audience with all groups represented. In such a way we will show him and the rest of the state that we are interested in the broad field of conservation and are ready to promote greater interest in it through a program of conservation education in which all groups participate."

He pointed out that one of the biggest jobs confronting the American people is to make full and efficient use of the natural resources and at the same time conserve and protect them from total depletion.

"This is as important to people in Saline county as to any other section of the country," he continued. "To achieve greatest accomplishments in the field of conservation, concerted action is needed by all groups, agencies, organizations, associations, and individuals who have contact with and influence upon the various segments of the Saline county citizenry."

Invitations have been sent out to leaders of various groups in the county. Anyone interested in the movement is invited to attend.

Gives Birth to Baby Girl After 150-Mile Trek

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Mrs. Arthur Madsen, 34, of Lake Saginaw, Ont., won a 150-mile race with the stork over wilderness trails by snowmobile, snowshoes, dog sled, car and bus and gave birth here Monday to a baby girl.

Mrs. Madsen entered St. Mary's Hospital last Wednesday after a two-day trek over obscure trails from her husband's Canadian summer resort. She and her 7-pound, 12-ounce daughter now are doing fine.

Originally, Mrs. Madsen had considered going on to Joliet, Ill., where she knew six doctors who had made fishing trips to their lake.

"Maybe one of them would deliver the baby free in exchange for another fishing trip," she had said.

The new arrival makes the couple's fourth child.

The hardy woman and her 6-year-old son started out from their lodge Jan. 28 by snowmobile—a car powered half-track. They were temporarily stranded when a sled that was to take them to the end of the famous Gunflint Trail was overloaded, and the mother and son had to take to snowshoes.

An Indian guide met the pair with a dog sled. They finally reached a lodge at Seagull Lake. They telephoned for help and a snowplow crew opened the road to Grand Marais, Minn.

The rest was easy. They rode a bus to Duluth.

Witnesses said that Curry was crossing Poplar street, walking from the Doty Shop corner north to the southwest corner of the court house.

They said a car driven by Donna Lightfoot of Stonefort Route 2 struck the man after her car made a left turn onto Poplar east from the Barter drug store corner of North Main street.

Curry was moved by ambulance to Ferrell hospital in Eldorado, where he asked to be taken. It was feared he had broken a leg, observers stated.

Open Bids Feb. 15 On Eldorado High School Bonds

Bids on the Eldorado Township high school building bonds will be publicly opened and read Feb. 15, it has been announced.

Carl Johnson, a member of the Board of Education, revealed today that letters outlining the proposed sale of bonds had been mailed to all prospective purchasers and a public meeting, with bond purchasers and all interested persons invited, would be held in the Eldorado Township high school the evening of Feb. 15.

On Dec. 17 voters in the high school district approved 1,230 to 876 the issuing of $540,000 in bonds for a building program.

Plans call for the construction of a new gymnasium and additions to the music, industrial arts and agriculture departments.

The gymnasium will be built east of the present high school plant and it was necessary to purchase a few homes and lots to complete the necessary tract of land needed. It is stated the owners of the property have given the school district option to purchase and will be vacating the property about April 1.

Plans are to start construction as early in the spring as weather will permit.

The vote on the resolution was 90-0.

Less than an hour later, Sens. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), Styles Bridges (R-NH) and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) were named to the committees. They were appointed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon after being nominated by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Leader William F. Knowland.

Noting that the committee includes two supporters and two opponents of the gas bill, Nixon described it as a "well balanced committee."

The controversial bill was passed by the Senate last night, 53-39. The vote sent it to the White House for President Eisenhower's expected signature.

Case Against Bill
Case voted against the bill. Case reported the $2,500 offer to the Senate last Friday. The lawyer Monday identified himself as John M. Neff, Lexington, Neb. He said the offer was a campaign contribution and that it had absolutely "no strings attached." He said he resented implications in Case's speech that it amounted to a bribe attempt. Case himself did not call it a bribe.

Case said he originally had favored the natural gas bill. But he said that in view of the campaign contribution offer from one interested in passage of the bill, he would—and did—vote against it.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, in calling the resolution up for immediate action, told the Senate "I do not want it to be said that this Senate is afraid to act or is hesitant."

The investigation would be limited to the Case incident. But Johnson said that if any other senator was subjected to similar circumstances, he should speak up and be included in the investigation.

Battle Develops
A jurisdictional battle was developing over just what committee would look into the question of improper influence. It appeared possible that a second group may undertake a somewhat similar inquiry. The Senate Privileges and Elections subcommittee met for a half hour before today's Senate vote to talk about a broader inquiry into campaign spending by all parties interested in passage or defeat of the gas bill.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.), acting independently, called his Senate Elections subcommittee into session before the Senate convened today to consider the Case incident and related matters. Hennings Monday tried to expand the Senate leadership proposal into a full-blown investigation not only of the Case matter, but also of campaign spending by gas and oil companies. His attempt also was blocked, however.

President Expected to Sign
No such rough sailing appeared to be in prospect for the gas bill itself. The Senate's 53 to 39 vote put the bill on President Eisenhower's desk. He has indicated that he probably would sign it.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark), Senate sponsor of the bill, and Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), House sponsor, said they expected presidential approval. Opponents said during the Senate debate that they doubted Mr. Eisenhower would veto it.

The bill would remove independent natural gas producers from direct price regulation by the Federal Power Commission. Opponents argued it would result in an increase of gas prices to consumers of 600 million dollars a year. Supporters denied this and said the bill was needed to encourage new gas explorations.

On final passage, 22 Democrats and 31 Republicans, many of them from gas-producing states, joined in voting for the measure. Opposed were 24 Democrats and 14 Republicans, many from major gas-consuming states.

The Union National Bank, at the intersection of the two main streets and between the Fowler and Vogel buildings, was damaged by water. Its electrical circuits were put out of commission.

Fire Commissioner Edgar Lehman said the damages may total more than 1 1/2 million dollars since the records of several loan companies were destroyed in the flames.

Asst. Fire Chief William Eckells, who led the first firemen to the blaze, said they thought it was under control after about an hour "but then there was a series of explosions in the basement of the Fritz building that almost got us."

After that, he said, the fire spread rapidly. The downtown area was covered by dense smoke and traffic tied up.

Resolution to Name Group Passes 90 to 0

Controversial Natural Gas Bill Goes to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today to investigate an "alleged improper attempt" to influence the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) on the natural gas bill.

The Senate approved a resolution establishing a four-man select committee to investigate the circumstances surrounding a $2,500 campaign contribution offered to Case by a Nebraska lawyer interested in passage of the gas bill.

The vote on the resolution was 90-0.

Less than an hour later, Sens. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), Styles Bridges (R-NH) and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) were named to the committees. The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: U.
S. Lost To England Re Red
China Blockade; Eden Concluded Ike Wouldn't Run
Again; Natural Gas Lobby
May Be Investigated.

WASHINGTON. — News breaks so fast during a big international conference that sometimes the most important news doesn't leak out until later.

In the case of the Eden-Eisenhower parley, it was carefully fuzzed up in the official communique, but the big news was that the British won their battle to ease the trade blockade against Red China.

President Eisenhower himself got into the argument on this and made a strong pitch against Eden, but lost. Ike even brought in Secretary of Defense Charlie Wilson and Admiral Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to bolster his argument, while John Foster Dulles brought in a 35-page report on Chinese trade, written by assistant Secretary of State Robertson.

However, Eden was adamant.
In the end he threatened to lift the trade blockade alone. Eden argued that trade with Red China was essential for certain parts of the British Commonwealth, particularly Ceylon and Malaya.
Their chief product, rubber, he said, was no longer a strategic war material. Furthermore the danger of communism existed in those areas unless they could ease trade barriers.

Faced with this showdown, Eisenhower yielded—though with the face-saving provision that the Red blockade would be reviewed by the 15 participating nations in Paris.
This, however, will be just a formality.

Note — Eisenhower got a concession from Eden that Britain would stand with the United States to bar Red China from admission to the United Nations this year.
Nothing was said about the year following—namely, 1957, after the elections.

EDEN GO-ROUND

Prime Minister Eden and his British advisers left Washington with the opinion that Eisenhower would not seek a second term . . .
No one asked the President any questions directly, but the British formed their opinion as a result of the way in which Eisenhower let John Foster Dulles carry the negotiation ball during the three-day meeting. The President seemed to tire noticeably and was glad when the sessions were over . . .
Biggest failure in the Eden-Eisenhower talks was regarding the Near East. Neither side could agree on any bold strategy to avert war between Egypt and Israel . . . There was also no definite agreement on a concrete program to combat Russia's growing economic challenge in Asia and Africa . . . The Eden and Eisenhower sessions were decidedly worthwhile from the point of general friendship, but not as far as concrete results were concerned.

LOBBY-GO-ROUND

The battle over natural gas probably broke all recent records for lobbying in the nation's capital. The scars will be felt for a long time to come — especially among the Democrats . . . Gas lobbyists adopted all sorts of techniques, especially that of hiring lawyers close to certain senators.
When lawyer friends of Senator Tom Hennings of Missouri approached him, he replied: "I'll be glad to read your brief and I hope you collect a big fee from your clients. But I'm going to vote against the gas bill."

Hennings not only voted, but he delivered one of the most effective speeches of the debate against the gas bill showing the huge profits netted by the gas-oil companies. He showed that the net income of the 30 top companies rose from $800,000,000 in 1946 to $2,155,000,000 in 1953. Hennings also urged an investigation of the manner in which the oil-gas companies were subsidizing certain campaign funds and senators who voted for the gas bill. This probe, if it materializes, should be one of the most sensational in the history of Congress. It was whispered around GOP cloakrooms that the GOP campaign chest would be "in" several million dollars if the gas bill passed . . . The gas lobby made a mistake when it tackled courageous Senator Francis Case, South Dakota Republican and offered him a $2,500 campaign contribution. He promptly denounced the subtle bribe.

GAS GO-ROUND

While other presidential candidates remained semi-silent on the natural gas debate, Senator Estes Kefauver didn't. Kefauver had accepted a series of speaking engagements in California before the date was set to vote on the gas bill. Despite the hectic series of speeches, he canceled all California engagements on Monday to fly back to Washington to cast his vote against the gas bill . . .
Adlai Stevenson at first followed Lyndon Johnson's advice to say nothing about the gas bill, but got into the act last week with a statement through his friend Sena-

Billy Graham Tour Creates More Good Will in India Than Lend-Lease Dollars

By GEORGE BURNHAM
Chattanooga News-Free Press
Staff Writer

DELHI, India — The triumphant tour of India by Billy Graham, in addition to its eternal values, has provided something tangible for the world to see now. It has created more good will for America here than all the millions of lend-lease dollars.

Billy is a clean-cut American that people can see. They can listen to what he says. He isn't some vague figure in the national budget that never filters down to the people in a language they can understand. The people of India like what they see in Billy and they have been listening with rapt attention to what he says. In less than three weeks he has talked to tor Humphrey of Minnesota that he was against the bill . . . Governor Harriman of New York was privately against the bill, but kept quiet . . . North Carolinians are mystified as to what happened to their so-called "liberal Democrat" Senator Kerr Scott. Though Governor Hodges of North Carolina was against the bill, as was the Public Service Commission of North Carolina, Senator Scott seemed stage-struck by the gas-glamor boys.

LECTURE TO DIXIECRATS

Louisiana's dapper Senator Allen Ellender gave fellow Dixiecrats a short lecture on politics at a recent private luncheon given by New Mexico's Senator Clint Anderson.

Ellender was shaking his head over the recent election results in Louisiana where the loyal Democrats overwhelmed Dixiecrat-Republican forces which had previously bolted to Eisenhower.

Turning to Senator Price Daniel, a Texas Dixiecrat, Ellender reminded: "Let me tell you that what happened in my state can happen in your state."

Then he swung around to South Carolina's Senator Strom Thurmond, 1948 Dixiecrat candidate for president.

"And that goes for you, too, in South Carolina," Ellender added.

Billy's tour has been phenomenal, beginning with riots in Bombay which focused world attention on the fact that he was here.

At every city and hamlet he has been met at the airport by civic and church leaders and ordinary people. He has had enough flower garlands to make him hump-shouldered. Five little girls got up at 4 a. m. to watch him catch an early morning plane. He has drawn crowds of 10,000 at 7 a. m. and 100,000 at 7 p. m. to hear him preach. A man walked 400 miles to shake his hand.

Thousands made decisions to change their way of life after listening to his simple message of Jesus Christ. This was true at every stop — Madras, Kottayam, Palamcottah and Trivandrum.
When his plane landed at Hyderabad for a 30 minute stop en route to Delhi, a crowd of 5,000 rushed Billy to a nearby field where a loudspeaker was set up. He preached and gave an invitation. Scores responded. They were different people when they waved goodbye minutes later.

Other thousands greeted him with song and flowers when he landed at Delhi. Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of UN, who landed two minutes later, arrived in comparative obscurity.
Billy is an unofficial ambassador who did not come criticizing. He came with a message of love and goodwill. Unlike one U. S. tourist who said, "These foreigners don't understand anything," Billy has words of praise everywhere he goes.

"I have fallen in love with India," he said. "When I leave I hope to be an ambassador for India. I have been overwhelmed by the friendship that has greeted us everywhere and the tolerance with which people of other religions have greeted us."

THE STORY: James Bennett, investigator for the State Industrial Welfare Commission, is trying to obtain permission for an autopsy on Frank Osborn, who has been dead six months. He sends papers for permission to the widow. However, Dr. Dick Jarrett, the coroner, objects to the procedure, and Wilbur Tweed, the undertaker, refuses to let the examination to be held in his funeral parlors. Next Lucy Dorn, who lives in Beech Tree, asks permission to see the autopsy.

Saturday morning was warm and sunny, with a soft breeze blowing. Reluctantly I abandoned my plans for trout fishing and drove up to Beech Tree. As I approached the Tweed Funeral Home on the square, I saw that Wilbur Tweed was out polishing the black sedan. I stopped at the curb and called to him.

"Where does Mrs. Osborn live?"
"She won't give her permission," he said, and he smiled slyly, showing his prominent teeth. "I called her this morning and advised her against it."

"Thanks," I said dryly.
"Doc Jarrett said it was a coronary," he said stubbornly, "and I'll back Doc to the hilt."

"We're not questioning Dr. Jarrett's professional ability. We just want to clear the books. You mentioned that you were with Mr. Osborn when he died. Would you mind telling me who else was present?"

"Well, there was Alice, and Abner Cornwallis and my sister, Nellie, and Doc—"

"And you all had been to the Christmas play at the school?"

"Yes, but how'd you know?"

"Mrs. Osborn told me. Would you please tell me how to get to her place?"

He eyed me silently for a moment. Then he said abruptly, "Straight through town. Three miles out, on your right. A white and green frame house on a hill, green barn in back. But you may as well save yourself the trip. I'll phone her before you get there, and she won't sign."

I parked in the drive and walked over clipped grass to the front porch. It was small, more of a stoop, with three cement steps and a painted wooden railing. The front door was open and I peered thru a screen at a small neat living room attractively furnished with maroon carpeting, bright chairs and a flowered sectional divan. I pressed a bell button, listened to melodious chimes and waited.

"Mrs. Osborn," I called loudly.

Nothing. I turned, left the stoop and walked around to the rear of the house. A fat gray cat lay on the steps. "Nice kitty," I said.

She stood up, stretched her front paws out, arched her back and tail, showed a pink needle-toothed yawn, and then moved to me on velvet pads and rubbed against my legs, her tail high. "Kitty," I said, "you're shedding."

I walked over the grass to the green barn, opened a door. It was dark inside and smelled like all barns smell, a good odor of hay and damp earth and horses. But the stalls were empty. I left the barn and stepped out into the bright sunshine. The gray cat stood by the pump busily applying a pink tongue to the soft fur of her chest.

As I leaned down to scratch her ears I thought I detected a movement by the corner of the barn. I looked up quickly, thinking it was Alice Osborn, but saw only high grass bending and rustling in the breeze. I peered closely at the barn, and at the wooded hill behind it, and then stood up straight and turned toward the house. I glanced back at the barn, remembering the half-imaginary movement, and then reached for the screen door-knob.

There was a sharp crack! from behind me and a small thudding sound beside my head. I stared dumbly at the little black hole and the broken flecks of white paint. It took me maybe two seconds to realize that the hole had been made by a bullet. And then I jerked open the screen door, jumped inside and peered cautiously out at the wooded hill behind the barn. I saw nothing but green foliage waving in the breeze, and I heard nothing but the sudden angry screaming of the birds.

I turned, took two steps into the kitchen, and stopped. I saw a double sink beneath an open screened window flanked by bright flowered curtains. One of the sinks was half full of water in which were submerged three medium-sized potatoes. Two of the potatoes were peeled and the curling skins were on a piece of newspaper beside the sink. A small paring knife was on top of the peelings. I noted a small hole in the screen, a tiny hole through which a fly was already crawling.

A woman lay on the floor, gently reclining on the green linoleum, her arms outflung, one leg bent gracefully exposing a soft under-curve of white thigh. Her eyes were half open, with just the barest glint of pupils behind the dark lashes, and there was a small contented smile on her lips. Just beneath the neckline of her neat print house dress was a small red stain.

I had never seen Alice Osborn. I had talked to her on the telephone and something about her had oddly attracted me. I would never talk to her again, but I would not forget her, and I felt a deep sadness and a sense of outrage. There was no need for me to touch her, but I did, on one cheek. The skin was still warm. And she was lovely, even in death.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Bob Rister of Shawneetown came through without a miss in the "you pick 'em" contest this week, calling all ten games correctly.
Eddie Quade, Harrisburg, was a close second with nine correct and one miss. Eddie's lone incorrect selection was in picking Harrisburg over Benton.
Rister, in addition to picking all ten winners, did a good job of predicting the score of the Centralia at Collinsville game (game of the week). Rister was exactly right on Centralia's 55 points, but was 10 too low for Collinsville, giving them 58 and they actually scored 68 in taking the decision.

Entries this week came from just four towns—Harrisburg, Eldorado, Carrier Mills and Shawneetown. Had about the usual total, with a much greater number of Harrisburg fans getting in last week than we usually have. But fell off in other communities. However, the interest in our game has held up remarkably well and we are pleased that so many of you apparently enjoy trying to "pick 'em".

This week's "you pick 'em" follows:
West Frankfort at Mt. Vernon.
Johnston City at Carbondale Comm.
Eldorado at Carmi.
Ridgway at Equality.
Vienna at Cave-in-Rock.
Lawrenceville at Salem.
Pope Co. at Shawneetown.
Centralia at Harrisburg.
Du Quoin at Anna.
Carrier Mills at McLeansboro (game of the week)

To play "you pick 'em", just read over the games listed, circle the team you think will win, then predict a score for the game of the week. Sign the completed form and bring or mail to The Daily Register sports desk not later than 5 p. m. Friday, Feb. 10. "Hooks" Suttner, Ridgway's 6-3 freshman center, is ready to return to action after being out since early in December. Suttner, considered an outstanding prospect by Coach Bob Dallas, was injured in a game at Eldorado Dec. 10. He underwent surgery as a result of the injury, it is reported, but now is physically able and anxious to start play again.
In answer to speculation that the New York Giants may move to Minneapolis, New York Sports Writer Joe Williams says there'll be no such switch for at least five years. As quoted in The Sporting News, Williams says that the length of the Giant's new TV-radio contract, reported to represent an aggregate fee of $2,000,000, incidentally, the present Polo Grounds has been the home of the Giants since 1891.

DID YOU KNOW THAT Rogers Hornsby's batting average for a five-year period (1921 to 1925) was a healthy .402?

Illinois Overcomes Indiana Lead to Win, 92-89; Iowa Defeats Wisconsin, 78-74

CHICAGO AP— Illinois and Iowa tottered on the brink of defeat Monday night, but the Big Ten leaders turned back valiant upset attempts by Indiana and Wisconsin to remain neck-and-neck in their race for the conference title.
Illinois stretched its winning streak to 12 straight and remained undefeated in Big Ten play by turning back Indiana, 92-89, but only after overcoming a 13-point Hoosier lead with 10 minutes to play.

Paul Judson sank two free throws with 49 seconds left in the game to put the Illini ahead, 89-88. Then Judson sank two more in the dying seconds to wrap up Illinois' sixth straight Big Ten triumph.
Iowa had to overcome two Wisconsin leads before the Hawks beat the pesky Badgers, 78-74, at Madison.
The eighth-place Badgers led 21-14 in the first half and 36-54 in the second half before Carl Cain and Bill Seaburg sparked Iowa to its fifth win in six Big Ten games.
Big Bill Logan was high point man for the defending champs with 10 field goals and 6 free throws for 26 points, but Seaburg and Cain got the crucial buckets which put Iowa ahead to stay after Wisconsin's final last half rally.

Michigan State moved into a fourth place tie with Ohio State by defeating Michigan, 86-75, in the only other Big Ten game Monday night.
Julius McCoy pumped in 41 points to raise his conference average to 30.1 in seven games.
Indiana appeared to have Illinois' number behind the hot-shooting of senior Wally Chole and led the Hoosiers 34-28 at the half.

Illinois won the thriller by taking more shots, connecting on 35 of 104 for a .337 shooting percentage. Indiana had a better mark, making 28 of 65 for a .431 average, but the Illini's rebounding proved superior.
This Saturday, Illinois takes on Ohio State at Champaign before an afternoon television audience and Iowa travels to Northwestern for another tilt with the Big Ten's tailenders.

Other Big Ten games send Michigan to Indiana and Minnesota to Wisconsin.

TAKE-OFF
YET

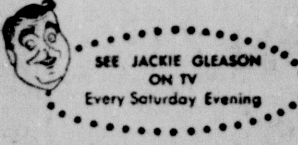

FIRST THING you need in a car, of course, is power to spark performance.
And you get that in a 1956 Buick in plenty — from big 322-cubic-inch V8 engines that hit new highs in horsepower and compression.
But the power under the hood must be carried to the rear driving wheels in the form of twisting force on the drive shaft.
That's torque—the end-product of your transmission.
And the higher the torque build-up—the greater the "torque multiplication" in starting and accelerating—the better the getaway and response.
So if you want to feel take-off that leaves your breath behind you, come try a '56 Buick with Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*
For in this airplane-principled transmission, Buick engineers raised the ceiling on torque to give you the best getaway yet.
They did it with something they call "double regeneration"

— a new way to make flowing oil add to its own velocity.
And when you use the full torque of a Buick beauty like the one pictured above, you're using the highest torque multiplication to be had in any standard-production American automobile today.
Come see for yourself what that means in new thrills and new safety.
You'll find brilliant new getaway response in the first inch of pedal travel—plus greater gas mileage to boot.
You'll find an electrifying new safety-surge of full-power acceleration when you floor the pedal and switch the pitch.
And you'll find this spectacular performance blended into the smoothest-traveling, the sweetest-riding, the highest-powered and the easiest-handling Buicks yet built. Drop in on us this week—today, if you can—and judge things firsthand.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

School Integration Must Be Obeyed, Stevenson Says

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democratic presidential hopeful Adlai Stevenson says he favors integration of public schools because it is the law and because he has opposed school segregation for many years.

The former Illinois governor told a news conference here Monday that desegregation of public schools was "the law of the land" under the Supreme Court's ruling and therefore had to be obeyed.

Stevenson also called efforts attributed by Democrats to Vice President Richard M. Nixon to identify the Democratic Party with communism as "one of the most shameful episodes in American history."

Stevenson said there was desegregation in Illinois schools during his term as governor. At that time, he said, he placed himself on record as against segregation in general.

The presidential aspirant made public a telegram he had sent to Franklin H. Williams, San Francisco representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Williams had asked Stevenson for a positive statement on non-discrimination as a prerequisite for federal insured housing loans and also on the need for strengthening prosecution by the Department of Justice in civil rights cases.

"As governor of Illinois, I twice recommended and vigorously supported fair employment practices legislation, reorganized and strengthened the Commission on Human Relations and ordered desegregation in the Illinois National Guard," his telegram stated. "Schools in East St. Louis and Alton, Ill., were desegregated during my term."

Stevenson said he did not know about the constitutionality of what action might be taken by the Department of Justice in cases such as that of Emmett Till. Stevenson then declared he was "indignant" over Republican efforts to link the Democratic Party with communism which "have been going on for the last five years or more."

"I'm indignant when such charges are leveled at former President Truman," he declared. "To imply that such a man is soft on communism is contemptible."

Rock Slide Hits Passenger Train

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Tons of rock and earth crashed down a rain-soaked hillside into a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train at the hamlet of Scott Haven early today and toppled four of eight cars to the edge of the Youghiogheny River.

Five of the 113 passengers aboard the train, the Cleveland Night Express en route to Washington, were taken to a hospital, but only one required treatment. James Stern, 34, Pittsburgh, suffered a sprained shoulder.

A rain-loosened boulder weighing about 15 tons struck the middle of the moving train. Three sleeping coaches and a club car derailed and overturned.

Burns Leaves $500,000 Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Comedian Bob (Bazooka) Burns, who died last Thursday at the age of 63, left an estate of about $500,000 to his widow, Mrs. Harriet Burns, his will showed today.

The will was filed for probate Monday in Superior Court. It stated that Mrs. Burns, of Canoga Park, Calif., was to inherit the entire estate provided she survives the comedian by five months.

Otherwise, the will stipulated $25,000 is to be given to a son by Burns' first marriage, Bob Burns Jr., 33, with the rest to be divided among three children by his second marriage, Barbara, 17, William, 16, and Stephen, 15.

Britain Submits Plans for Visit by Soviet Leaders

LONDON (AP)—Britain is going ahead with plans for the April visit of Russia's Nikita S. Khrushchev and Nicolai A. Bulganin, but they will be warned in advance not to indulge in anti-American propaganda, it was reported today.

Informed sources said the government, ignoring vigorous anti-Communist protests, has presented a proposed schedule for the trip to Ambassador Jacob Malik for relay to the Kremlin.

The Communist boss and the Soviet premier, who denounced the West at every opportunity during a recent tour of India, are expected to use their visit here to promote the current Russian effort to divide Britain from the United States.

Refugees from European satellite nations have been especially active in trying to prevent Britain from rolling out the red carpet for the conquerors of their homelands.

Details of the tentative schedule for the Russian visit are still secret, but informed sources said it will include arrangements for "searching" Anglo-Soviet talks as well as the usual social events.

They said the program is designed mainly to acquaint Khrushchev and Bulganin with British political, cultural and social institutions and to give them a glimpse of this country's everyday life.

Informed sources said the Foreign Office will warn the Russians not to try to make propaganda capital of their stay in Britain, and especially to refrain from attacks on the United States.

Train Jumps Tracks, Crashes Into Junk Yard

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP)—A Chicago-to-Cincinnati passenger train jumped the tracks Monday night and crashed into a junk yard, demolishing trucks and other obstacles in its path and injuring 12 persons.

St. Joseph Hospital reported none of the passengers or crewmen on the Pennsylvania Railroad train was hurt seriously.

The two-unit diesel locomotive landed upside-down, another car landed on its side, and three others were derailed. The train was picking up speed after leaving the station and headed accidentally into a spur line at the Lutz Iron and Steel Co.

Engineer Ernest R. Crull, 67, Richmond, Ind., said the wreck was caused by an open switch which sent the train piling into a coal gondola standing on the spur. The train also struck four parked trucks, and knocked down power lines and a gasoline pump.

The downed lines blacked out part of the city until repairs could be made.

Black Panther Reported Roaming Near Banks Of Illinois River

LA SALLE, Ill. (AP)—Farmers armed themselves today to protect their cattle from a black panther reported to be roaming near the banks of the Illinois River.

Some farmers believed there were two panthers at large instead of one, because footprints discovered were of two sizes.

The prowler first was reported two weeks ago near Utica where three calves were missing and a fourth destroyed.

Murray Crowder, outdoor writer for the La Salle News-Tribune, went there to investigate and concluded that the prowler was a panther or leopard.

Eisenhower Urges Action on Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower urged Republican legislative leaders today to press for speedy congressional action on his new farm program.

He and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson made clear at a White House meeting that they are anxious to get the program approved at the earliest possible date so that it can have some effect during the current year.

Relief for the nation's hard-pressed farmers was the chief subject at the President's weekly meeting with Republican congressional leaders.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, the Republican leader in the House, reported there was "no discussion" of a possible presidential veto if Congress acts to restore rigid high price supports. The President "kept very quiet" on the subject, Martin said with a smile.

A Democratic-sponsored measure, tentatively approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee Saturday, would restore the high supports which the administration has steadfastly opposed.

Martin said passage of the controversial gas bill by the Senate was not discussed "at all" at the weekly session. Foreign policy and politics also did not come up, he said.

Martin told newsmen he and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) have agreed to "try to aim for July 1" as the deadline for completing action on major legislation.

"But at this stage," he conceded, "that is just a pious hope."

Norway Fines Russian Fishing Captains $87,365

ALESUND, Norway (AP)—Sixteen chastened Russian captains steered their fishing ships toward the open sea today, nearly $88,000 poorer for violating Norwegian territorial waters.

Norwegian naval craft captured 15 fishing boats and a factory ship last week when they brazenly invaded Norway's four-mile territorial water limit in pursuit of herring. The seized vessels were part of a Soviet fishing fleet, estimated at up to 100 ships, which played a game of hide-and-seek with the Norwegian navy for four days.

Norway ignored stern protests from Moscow and kept the ships and nearly 1,000 crewmen under port arrest pending disposition by a local court of poaching charges. Monday night, the court fined the violators a total of $87,365.

The ships were granted permission to leave after the individual captains signed the court orders and the Soviet embassy guaranteed that the fines would be paid.

Grace Kelly, Prince Plan Two Wedding Ceremonies April 18-19

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier II have announced they will be married in a double-feature wedding in the prince's tiny European principality of Monaco on April 18 and 19.

The celebrated couple disclosed their double wedding dates Monday after lengthy conferences with Miss Kelly's family in Philadelphia and the prince's advisers in his homeland.

The announcement said they would first be wed in a civil ceremony on April 18 and then would be reunited again in a Catholic ceremony on the following day, probably by the bishop of Monaco.

Taxpayers' Group Calls for Sound Pension System

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois today called for a "sound, solvent, integrated pension system" for all state and local government employees.

Conrad Orloff, chairman of the federation's committee on public employee pensions, pledged federation support for such an objective, and urged the Illinois Public Employee Pension Laws Commission to "take the lead in a positive program toward coordination of pension funds."

The commission was scheduled to meet in Chicago today.

Such a coordinated pension system would provide normal retirement at 65 with "liberal" benefits, with state and local government employees covered by social security; all existing public employee pensions would be consolidated in one state administered fund, Orloff said.

State funds should pay the cost of a supplemental pension system for local government employees, although this would require a constitutional amendment, he said.
